CAPETS ON HORSEBACK.

CAVALRY DRILL OF THE WEST POINT GRADUATES.

CHARGING LIKE FRENCH CHASSEURS OR COS SACKS OF THE DON-EVOLUTIONS THAT ASTONISHED THE SPECTATORS.

West Point, June 3 (Special),-Meissonier's picture of the chasseurs before Napoleon was reproduced in a measure in the West Point parade this afternoon, when the mounted cadets swept past a crowd of applauding ors at a mad gallop with their naked sabre fashing on high in the afternoon sun and their horse her of foam. The cavalry drill at the Academy of course, the most picturesque of exercises. sightseers to day were by no means so numerous as in previous years, when brilliant parties have come up from New-York in drags and tallyhos especially to witness the cadets' horsemanship. Nevertheless, the was plenty to look at, and old soldiers admiringly commended the tactical and equestrian excellence of the evolutions. Colonel Wilson and Governor Buckner re viewed the exhibition from the middle of the long line of parasols under the trees on the edge of the gravelled parade ground. With them were nearly all the Board Visitors, excepting Senator Pugh, of Alabama, who phoidly reviewed the furious enslaught of the chargers from a shady corner of the hotel veranda-

At noon the ninety-five horses of the comman were brought by their keepers from their snug stalls and tethered to two ropes in the stable-yard, where they frisked for nearly five hours in enjoyment of the breeze and the sunshine. Just before 5 sixtyfour of them were led up to the east side of the parade and ranged in a row near the library. Soon after, the entire first class of cadets marched out in fours from the barracks and formed a line in front They were accounted in gray trousers with gray, black-braided blouses, buckskin riding gloves and dark blue cloth riding-caps, of the coster monger pattern, sabres and spurs. Captain Louis A. Craig, of the 6th Cavalry, the senior assistan instructor in cavalry tactics, presently rode up before the line, accompanied by a bugler on a frisky sorrel that persisted in tossing his head and getting the reins over his ears at critical moments. at such drills choose their horses beforehand, and after responding to roll-call pick them out by the brass name-plates on the browband. There was a good deal of backing and rearing and several admoni tory blasts of the bugle while this was done. There the gray sixty-four mounted as one man, with bearer of a red and white guidon in the centre Sixty-two of the steeds were bay or chestaut, and only two gray, the favorite of all, a big gray named Bernard, having stumbled in a high jump in the rider, Cavalry Sergeant McDuff. Old troopers aver that the most important cavalry evolution is forming and keeping a straight line. After Captain Craig had demonstrated the skill his command in this respect, he gave the order "Draw sabres," and followed them toward the hotel in a sort of "plantation walk 'round." them wheel and trot "fours right" and "left oblique" and describe true lover's knots and other intricate patterns with a facility that bewildered the uninitiated. He caused a column to open out at the end and form a straight line and then bunched the centre and sides again until the riders were huddled together in a compact mass. All this, of course, was scientific, but the fun for the spectators began whe a short quick bugle-call sent the troop off at a flying gallop, smid a tremendous clanking of sabres and linging of bridle chains, and in an obscuring cloud dust above which the guidon fluttered like a flame. After this Captain Craig held a short conference with the cadet captains. The vigilant Colonel Wilson sent an orderly to keep the crowd back. Then a platoon of cadets moved forward at a stealthy trot. As they neared the reviewing-post the troop broke into a gallop, and the sabres were raised. "See her extend herself!" cried an excited trooper in the crowd, as a big bay rushed forward from the line, and in an instan the platoon was madly chasing her in the direction of the green hedge about the hotel. After the three plateons had trotted themselves out the whole squadon was trotted back quietly toward the library. or fourteen of the cadets rode out of the line or the grass, and at command dismounted and made their charges lie down. Then they drew revolvers from the saddle holsters, threw themselves on their sides and emptied their barrels at an imaginary foe over th horses' heads. One or two of the beasts squirmed a little at the cracking fire, but a gallant old stager, who was evidently accustomed to the smell of powder, munched the grass as he lay with every appearance of contentment and unconcern. The horses at the Academy is a perennial grievance. The poard of Visitors have already taken it under consid eration, and the drill this afternoon furnished them an additional demonstration. The riders kept Roard of Visitors have already taken it under consuceration, and the drill this afternoon furnished them an additional demonstration. The riders kept well together while the pace was slow, but at the end of the charge they were scattered all over the field, like the ruck of the "dark horses" in a suburban Handicap. This was not at all the fault of the cadets, who really hand to their saddless like Den Cossacks. But the West Point horses are baily used. The Academy receives its quota through the Quartermaster-General, out of the annual Compressional apprepriation for Army horses. They come from Missouri and Kentucky, and compare well with the ordinary cavairy charger.

But, in Colonel Wilson's own words, it seems almost impossible to obtain the most suitable horses for the price authorized to be paid. They are, moreover, made to do double duty. As the academy has no artillery horses, they are required to draw the field pieces and caissons, which are altogether too heavy for beasts of their build. What with nard work in harness and rough treatment by 200 raw riders they are selected for either cavalry or artillery service, and so selected for either cavalry or artillery service, and so selected for either cavalry or artillery service, and so selected for either cavalry or artillery service, and so selected for either cavalry or artillery service, and so selected for either cavalry to a fillery before they discover that a cavairy troop can actually be kept together throughout a charge. The present stables are not what they ought to be; besides they are three quarters of a mile from the cavalry barracks, so that the solders in the winter have sometimes to go through the snow in a storm before daylight. The riding-hall with its picturesque red roof and green creepees is fearfully cold in winter. The tanhark freezes and gives the horses are annually dropped from the rolls as unserviceable. The strillery harmes, and might be housed in the riding hall, which is fighted by gas, with the excaption of the riding hall, whi to $50,000.

Colonel and Mrs. Wilson to-night entertained at Coloner senator and Mrs. Manderson. Senator Pugh, Congressman and Mrs. Scrauton, Colonel and Mrs. Murfee, David W. Payne and Judge Waymore.

DOINGS AT THE NAVAL ACADEMY.

Annapolis, Md., June 3.—The quiet pleasures of the Naval Academy were broken into this morning by the call to the Wyoming for artillery practice. Com mander Sperry, head of the department of gunnery and Ordnance, was called upon to prove to the Bo Visitors by actual demonstration what he had been teaching the cadets during the year. Lieutenant R. R. Ingersoll was executive officer of the ship. The target was placed from 750 to 1,000 yards distant. every shot would have struck a ship. The target did fall, but when it was brought ashore it had five

At 2:30 p. m. Bibles were presented to the graduates in the chapel by the Rev. W. C. Stitt, secretary of the American Seamen's Friend Society, on behalf of the society. The Rev. Robert H. Williams made the opening prayer, and the Rev. Dr. T. S. Hatlin, of Washington ade a brief address. The cadets then marched out on the parade ground and were dismissed. At 4 p. m naval cadets paraded as a battalion of artillery under Lieutenant William F. Fullam. The drill was shots in it, and was cut almost in two.

The annual inspection was held to-day of the ba tallon of St. John's College, Lieutenant Robert H. Noble military instructor. The officer designated for this purpose is Captain Sanford C. Kellogg, 5th Cavalry. The movements elicited high compliments. In the afternoon the visitors witnessed the artillery drill at the Naval Academy.

EXTENDING PRATT INSTITUTE.

MEETING OF THE FROEBEL SOCIETY.

A HIGH-SCHOOL BUILDING TO BE ERECTED-

WORK IN AGRICULTURE. The annual reception of the Prochel Society tool place last evening in the Froebel Academy, in La fayette-ave., facing Tompkins Park, Brooklyn. the school was acquired by Charles Pratt a short tin before his death. As explained in an article published in vesterday's Tribune, Mr. Pratt's plans in connection with the school will be carried out by his sons, and the Freebel Academy will become an adjunct of the Pratt Institute. Both Frederic B. Pratt, the executive head of the Pratt Institute, and his brother, Charles M Pratt, who has a personal interest in the Fro Academy from the fact that his two children are in its kindergarten department, were present at the reception A large number of the fathers and mothers of children

Mrs. Brooks, president of the Froebel Society, which is composed of the mothers of the children who attend academy, called the company to order about i o'clock, and for half an hour there was an interesting programme of music and recitations. Then refreshments were served, and subsequently a number of space were made. Mrs. C. N. Chadwick, one of the founders and trustees of the academy, spoke of the aim which has been successfully carried out in the school. Dr. Alexander Hutchins, president of the Board of Trustees, discussed "The New Administra tion" and predicted a bright future for the school Remarks were also made by a number of others. The general feeling was, perhaps, well expressed by one the patrons, who said:

I was both surprised and disappointed when heard that our school had passed into the hands Mr. Pratt, for I was by no means certain how much that might mean as to its future. It is easy to under stand the eagerness of some of the trustees to rid themselves of the burden which the acedemy has been to them since its establishment, though to others, as I know, it has been a labor of love which they would gladly have continued for a good many years. But com what I have since learned, I believe that the chool will gain much by the transfer. It will certainly be a great advantage to it to have a new and commodious building and more ample resources, and far as I have been informed of Mr. Pratt's plans believe he is destrious of continuing the school's work on the same lines as heretofore. The central idea i this school has been a unity of method and princip from beginning to end, rather than a departmental That is what we hope to retain, and I hope that Mr. Pratt will co-operate heartily with us. all feel glad to be assured that some of the old trustees are to be retained in the management."

In regard to carrying out the plans of Charles Pratt for the Pratt Institute, Frederic B. Pratt, who is at the head of it, said yesterday that the work of the institute would be extended and developed as rapidly as posible in accordance with his father's wishes. An additional high school building will be erected on the lot south of the institute, three stories in height, and work will begin upon it as soon as the plans are work will begin upon it as soon as the prepared.

Next month the agricultural work in connection with the institute will be carried on both in Brooklyn and et Glen Cove, L. I. An acre of ground in Willoughbyave., between Steuben and Schenck sts., has been laid out in flower and vegetable gardens, and the students will cultivate the plants. Greenhouses will be put up later and classes in horticulture and forfculture will be continued throughout the year. At Glen Cove a form of 150 acres has been set apart for agricultural work by the students. There will be a dozen there this summer after July 1, under the direction of Horace Atwood, a graduate of Cornell.

A MEDAL FOR THE PRESIDENT.

PRESENTED BY VETERANS OF THE 7TH REGI-MENT-HE PRAISES THE ORGANIZATION.

Washington, June 3 .- A committee of 7th Regiment Veterans, N. Y. S. N. G., came to Washington this afternoon, and at a special reception given them at the White House at 9 o'clock to-night, presented to President Harrison a gold medal commemorative of the Centennial celebration in New-York two year The 7th Regiment acted as escort to the dent on that occasion. The committee consisted of Brigadier-General James R. O'Beirne, Colonel Ed ward G. Arthur and Messrs., W. G. Dominick, Byron Greene, Edward R. Young, W. H. Hampton Goodwin, George W. Jones and Robert Dir

President early in the day, but was delayed by a railroad accident. Colonel Arthur presented the and referred to the 7th Regiment as a military or ganization whose fame was known throughout the country.

SECRETARY FOSTER HERE.

HE LEARNS OF SOME RUMORS ABOUT HIMSELF BUT DOES NOT THINK MUCH OF THEM.

The Secretary of the Treasury, Charles Foster, reache here at 7 o'clock last evening from Washington Notice of his coming was telegraphed from Washington in the afternoon and it resulted in setting in motion number of sensational rumors as to what he intended do while here. One of these rumors was that he was to meet a number of New-York bankers this mornng to arrange with them for an extension of the $51,000,000 of Government 41-2 bonds which are due for redemption on September 1. Rumor had it that these bonds were to be extended if their holders would permit it on a sort of sliding scale of interest at 1, 1 1-2 and 2 per cent. It was further told that the New-York bankers were up in arms at a possible reduction the interest from 2 per cent to 1 or 11-2 per cent.

The Secretary was not inclined to discuss financia affairs last night, but he said that he had not heard of the 1 or 11-2 per cent interest matter before. to the Government bonds, he added that most of the were held in the West and he failed to see how New York bankers would be interested in them. The Seretary added that he was not aware that there was to be any formal meeting between him and the York bankers at the Sub-Treasury to-day. He said that a room there was set aside for the Secretary the Treasury and he would be pleased to ees any New York bankers who might call upon him.

Mr. Foster would say nothing regarding a possible examination into the Appraiser's Stores and the examination into the Appraiser's Stores and the Custom House. It is understood, however, that he will make a cursory examination of the Appraiser's Stores and of the Harse Office. The Secretary will be in Brooklyn this afternoon and evening. To-night be will be the guest of the Brooklyn Union League (lib, and to-morrow night he will be the guest of a number of personal friends. He expects to return to Washington on Saturday morning.

You may save yourself much trouble in your search for something you need by examining the little advertisements on the ninth page of The Tribune to-day.

NOTES OF THE STAGE.

A special matinee will be given at the Madison Square Theatre this afternoon for the first production of "The Louislanian," by Edward M. Alfriend.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dacre have decided to return to England. Mr. Dacre will come back to prosecute the suit in which he is interested and both intend soon to appear again on the American stage.

Edward Harrigan was unable to appear in "Relliv and the 400° last night. Joseph Sparks played h part to the entire satisfaction of the audience. Harrigan will be on the stage again soon. Gouldrich, a member of the company, who is at Bellovue Hospital, is not expected to live. His name is MacGoldrick.

Mr. and Mrs. Kendal sailed yesterday on the Teu tonic. They will come back in the autumn for their third American tour.

Edwin Boota left town on Monday for Stockbridge Mass. After a visit there he will go to Bosten and then to Newport, where he will spend the most of the summer. His daughter accompanies him. Mr. Booth is said to be in better health than he has been before in a long time.

Miss Esther Lyon is playing the part in "Mr. Wilkin son's Widows," at Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre, that has been played previously by Miss Henrietta Crosman, who goes with the Lyceum company on its Eastern tour next week.

Another report comes from London that John R. Rogers and Minnie Palmer are on good terms again. A report to the country will be due to-morrow.

" A NIGHT'S FROLIC" IN BOSTON.

Boston, June 3 (Special).—The fiftieth performance by Miss Helen Barry of "A Night's Frolic," by Angustus Thomas, was given this evening at the Park Theatre. Every woman in the andience re-ceived a souvenir. Miss Barry was called before the curtain, and in a graceful speech thanked her friends for their approval.

LATE STEAMSHIP ARRIVAL.

The Inman Line steamship City of New-York, from Liverpool and Queenstown, arrived at Quarantine at an early hour this morning,

THE FARCE AT ALBANY.

REFUSAL BY THE COMMITTEE OF THE CANAL UNION'S REQUEST.

WILL NOT APPOINT GEORGE CLINTON AS COUN SEL-SENATORS M'NAUGHTON AND SHEARD AND ASSEMBLYMAN ACKER EXAMINED.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRUBUNE.] June 3 .- Edward Hannan, who by the grace of David B. Hill is Superintendent of Public Works and has charge of the expending of the $2,000. 000 or $3,000,000 annually appropriated for the mainenance and improvement of the State's canals, still efrains from coming before the Assembly Canal Inestigating Committee, and the committee is careful not to call him or any of his subordinates. Nothing discloses more clearly than that fact the intention to make the investigation a failure, so far as discussing the facts of canal management is concerned. To-day turther proof of this attitude of the Democratic co. mittee was given by the disregard of the committee of what seems an entirely reasonable request made by some distinguished citizens of the State. zens are all members of the Canal Union, the leading association for the promotion of the canal commer It is the body through whose efforts over 81,000,000 has been expended in lengthening the locks and otherwise improving the canals. Nevertheless, it is an association keenly aware that the voters of State distrust any State department which does not court investigation; and therefore it favors a thorough and not a sham inspection of the Canal Department. Two of the most prominent members of the Canal Union are ex-Congressman Orlando B. Potter and ex-Mayor Franklin Edison, of New-York, both Democrats. These men both sign the following petition, which was received by the committee as it met to-

The undersigned respectfully urge upon you the undersigned respectfully drige upon your considera-tion the appointment of the Hon. George Clinton, o Buffalo, N. Y., to serve as attorney for your committee during the investigation about to be undertaken. Mr Clinton's long public career has made his name known and respected by all of the citizens of this State, and hi knowledge of the canal system of the State will, lieve, better fit him for the position named than any other gentleman available. Respectfully,

O. B. Potter,
Franklin Edson,
E. M. Clarkson,
C. M. Clarkson,
M. Dartson,
Ambrose Snow,
P. B. Thurber,
M. Folsom,
Frank S. Witherbea,
W. S. Webb.

Mr. McMahon and his fell w Democratic Assemblyme would not grant the request. They know that George Clinton is an expert on canal matters; and that it would not do to have the grandson of De Witt Clinton, with his inherited capacity for canal "figgers," let loose upon the bids made by canal contractors. Accordingly, Mr. McMahon handed the petition to Charles F. De Freest, clerk of the Democratic State Committee, and requested him to write to Mr. Potter and his associates letter saying "the committee already have counsel." The counsel are Mr. Fiero, who hardly ever saw Eric canal boat until he came here from Kingston, two months ago, and James D. McMahon, a bright Demo cratic lawyer from Rome, who doesn't intend to have anything damaging happen to the Democratic department while he conducts the examination of witnesses

The last valuable witness to-day that the committee had was Schator Sheard, of Little Falls, who voluntarily gave the committee the name of a Deme ratic editor in Herkimer County who had assailed the canal management as corrupt. Will the committee summon this editor before them? The other witnesses were Senator McNaughton, of Rochester, Den ocrat, who, of course, culogized the canal manage ment; Assemblyman Acker, of Hornellsville, who expressed a conviction that the canal administration is extravagant. To-morrow Silas B. Dutcher, the Republican Superintendent of Public Works in 1880 881 and 1882, will be a witness, in company with Assemblymen Judd, Gillette, Dempsey and Haley, and Collins, all Democrats,

Donald McNaughton, Democrat, Senator of the district composed of the counties of Monroe and Or leans, was the first witness. He testified that he had been for the last four years a member of the Senate. He remembered when the canal investigation resoluwas introduced by Senator Laughlin in the Sen ate, and he suggested that the resolution be printed The resolution was introduced on April 8. Legislature adjourned on April 30. The debate upon the resolution began on April 14, and the deadlock in the Senate followed. It was Senator Cantor who had the consideration of the resolution adjourned from April 8 to April 14. Mr. McNaughton read from the Senate journals extracts showing clearly that the Democratic Senators obstructed the business of the Senate in order to prevent a vote from being taken medal in a brief speech. The President made a upon the canal investigation resolution. This was happy response, in which he expressed pleasure at generous in Mr. McNaughton; unexpectedly so to eption given him when he visited New-York | the Republicans. They could account for it only by self of responsibility for the deadlock, if possible; as he brought out, with all the force he could, the fact that Senators Ives and Cantor were the men who made

Mr. McNaughton then confessed that he had intro duced canal appropriation bills. He had never heard of any scandal concerning the Canal Department. He thought the need of an annual examination of the Canal Department might be obvinted by having the Canal Committee read carefully the reports of the Superintendent of the Department of Public Works and the State Engineer. They might be instructed to call Superintendent Hannan before them and ask to see his canal contracts and his vouchers.

"Do you know," asked Mr. Brodsky, "whether the rdinary repairs of the canals are done by contract Mr. McNaughton answered: "I was told by Superin tendent Shanahan that some kinds of canal work could not be advantageously done by contract, such as botoming out the canals, or repairing leaks." "Is there any inspection of the canal work?"

"Yes, by the inspectors appointed by the Superintendent of Public Works."

"You believe," inquired Mr. Brodsky, "there should be a supervision of the work done by the Canal Department by the Legislature ?" "No; you have misunderstood me. I simply mea that the Canal Committee should examine the reports "Do the committees of the Legislature have power to send for persons and papers ?"

"I believe not; and yet I think that a Senator or as

Assemblyman could call publicly the attention of the superintendent of Public Works to any omission in h

"Undoubtedly," said Mr. Brodsky, "but could committee of the Legislature summon before them any state officer or witnesses without the authority of a resolution passed by the Legislature !"

"I believe not," answered Mr. McNaughton. "Why don't the recommendations for these public works come from the Superintendent of Public Works !

" Escause he cannot do everything." "De you think an investigation of the canal me "I do," answered senator McNaughton, "and this

omn. Etee, conducted as it is, is proof of it." Mr. McNaughton voted against an investigation by the Republican Canal Committee of the Schate.

Thus Sheard, of Little Falls, ex-speaker of the As-sembly and Senator from the XXIIId District, was the next witness. He said he had been the representative of this "canal district" for the last two years. He was asked f he had introduced a bill appropriating money for the extension of the vertical wall of the Eric Cana

at Ilion
"Yes, I introduced such a bill," he answered.
"Would not such a wall protect the highway!" inquired ifr. McMahon.
"It would," answered the witness, "since the high"It would," answered the The banks of the canal at

"It would," answered the witness, "since the high-way russ parallel with it. The banks of the canal at that point have constantly been slumping into the canal. That filled up the canal and decreased its depth, as well as narrowed the highway." "Have you been told that canal boats were embar-rassed tire?"
"I have been." Then Mr. Sheard said: "I intro-duced the bill at the request of citizens of Illon, Demo-crats and Republicans. They informed me that it had the approval of superintendent Hannan."
"Did you know of any opposition to the bill at Illon!"

"Did you know of any opposition to the bill at Bion!"

"I say there was opposition to it when Governor Hill vetoed it. I had no personal knowledge then, nor have I now, of any reason why that bill should not have been signed. In proportion to the distance the canal passes through my Senate district, forty miles, my district has had less canal appropriations than any other in the State.

"Had you any information which led you to think there should be an investigation of the Canal Department?" Inquired Mr. Brodsky.

"There were certain articles in 'The Mohawk Independent,' edited by William A. Churchill,' said Senator Sheard, "which charged that men were paid for canal work which they had not performed; that canal material had been paid for which did not materialize, and that there had been favoritism in the matter of the glying out of canal contracts for lock-lengthening.

"Were these charges made at the time of the debate apout the Langhiln resolution!"

"Before," said Mr. Sheard, "and you can learn the facts by summoning here Mr. Churchill and other Democrats of lierkimer."

"What was your idea of the proposed canal investigation, as looked at by the Senator' inquired Mr. Brodsky.

"It's thought was, if possible, to lessen the cost of Brodsky.

"It's thought was, if possible, to lessen the cost of maintaining the causis," snawered Mr. Sheord, "and to insura learn if the money of the people was being honestly expended. There are grave reasons for thinking that there is a great amount of imnecessary canal work dens; and on of $32

that as a whole the Canal Department is too expen-

that as a whole the Canal Department is too expensive."

Milo M. Acker, of Hornellsville, the Republican leader in the Assembly, was the last witness. In respect to canal appropriations as a whole, Mr. Acker was firmly of the opinion that they were too large, and, in the interest of the taxpayers, should be reduced. Mr. Sheard having said that "The Herkimer Independent" had charged that Deimel & Snell, of Herkimer, although the lowest Enders, had not received the contract for lengthening Lock No. 97. Mr. McMahon said that The Tribune had also quoted figures making the same statement and he read from the annual report of the Superintendent of Public Works the following figures as of the bids for lengthening Lock No. 27: Deimel & Snell, $25,254 20; William C. Rogers, $25,298 50; Costello, Nagle & Co., $24,356.

It is proper to say that The Tribune's statement was based upon a formal report made in a printed form by the Superintendent of Public Works to the Assembly in 1890, in response to $\frac{\pi}{a}$ resolution offered by Mr. Fish requesting him to give a statement showing the bids and awards of contracts in the Canal Department for the years 1888 and 1850. In this report of Superintendent Hannan, which is public document No. 61 of the Assembly of 1890, there is the following report of bids for lengthening Lock 27 of the Erie Canal: Defimel & Snell, $24,254 20; William C. Rogers, $25,298 50; Costello, Nagle & Co., $24,336, It appears that there is a difference of just $1,000 in these two statements of Mr. Hannan respecting the amount of the bid of Deimel & Snell, and it is submitted that it is Mr. Hannan who is at fault in this matter and not The Tribune. It may be added, before dropping this matter, that an examination of the original contract in Mr. Hannan's office shows that he was correct in this amount report to the Assembly respecting this bid of Deimel & Snell. The firm of Costello & Nagle were in for the lowest bidders.

A NEW POREST COMMISSIONER NAMED fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Sherman W. Knevals, of New-York City. Mr. Farlin for a long time was connected with the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company and recently resigned as general freight agent of that road. He is now the president of the Manhattan Oli Company, which operates in the Ohio fields.

THE COMMITTEE OF TWENTY-FOUR. JOHN C. SHEEHAN CHOSEN PERMANENT SECRE-TARY TO SUCCEED CHARLES STECKLER. When the Tammany district leaders who comp "Committee of Twenty-four" entered the wam to attend their meeting last evening, their vision was delighted by a huge representation of a tiger's of the committee rooms. The picture was the property of General Spinola. After the General's

Mrs. Spifiola sent it as a present to Mr. Croker, who transferred at to the walls of the Wigwam. It exhibits the head of a particularly large, savage, greedy, hungry, desperate and remorseless beast, and what the Tammany tiger, in politics, is conceded to be. Thomas F. Gilroy, the chairman, presided, and nearly all the members were present except Police Commissioner Martin, who was in Philadelphia inspecting the bronze figure of the Indian which is to surmount the monument to the Tammany Regiment, to perpetuate the memory of the 42d New-York Volunteers on the field of Gettysburg. John Sheehan, who has been acting secretary Charles Steckler resigned the post, was, on motion of Mr. Croker, chosen permanent secretary. Register Fitzgerald, chairman of the committee five appointed to patch up the differences of the ported a new general committee of 168 names. that the new list for the XIVth would be ready in time to present it at the meeting of the Committee of Organization this evening. The XIVth District Committee will be made up of over 200, and will be headed by ex-Register John Reilly. It was said that Frank T. Fitzgerald had been selected as General John Cochrane's successor in the chairmanship of the Tammany Hall General Committee.

THE KNIGHTS OF RECIPROCITY

THEIR ORGANIZATION IN KANSAS AND THEIR HOPES FOR POLITICAL POWER.

Chicago, June 3 .- A disnatch from Topeka says "The Grand Lodge of the Knights of Reciprocity at last evening's session amended the constitution and by-laws of the order. More than 100 delegates, ref esenting 160 lodges, are in the city, and many Republican leaders who have refused to join are here watching the organization. The membership of the order is now about 20,000 in Kansas, while lodges have been established in Omalia and South Dakota. The Knights are finding their bitterest opposition among the members of their own party, who oppose secret-society work in politics as un-American. The older politicians, with the exception of Congressman Peters, have refused to join, but the younger leaders are taking hold with enthusiasm, and assert that with the continued growth of the order it will be in a position to dictage party

VERDICT IN THE CASE OF THE DYNAMITE EX-PLOSION AT TARRYTOWN.

Coroner Edward Mitchell yesterday continued the quest in the case of the victims of the Tarrytown ex-plosion. James H. Travis, the foreman of a train gung, was recalled by Coroner Mitchell upon the request of the jury, who wished to ask him some further questions regarding the authority he had in giving the order to Pinne-garding the authority he had in giving the order to Pinne-gan to remove all the rubbish at Dudley's Grove. Travis said he had full authority to give orders to men under him. A juryman asked if he did not know it was dangerous to transport dynamite on a flat car. Travis said he did not think it was. He said he was willing to ride on a car carrying ben tons of the explosive to Albany-Coroner Mitchell and the jury went to Sing Sing to Coroner Mitchell and the jury went to Sing Sing to take see evidence of Thomas Finneran, the biscksmith, who was one of the helpers on the ill-fated train. Finnegan said: "The last thing I remember d being put on the flat car was two tubs. In these tubs were placed the cape, or exploders. After we had everything loaded we hauled explorers.

ANOTHER INSURANCE COMPANY STOPS.

The People's Fire Insurance Company, which has been in existence since 1851, is going out of business. It was the result of a meeting of the Board of Directors which was held on Tuesday. The entire business of the company has been rein ared in the National Fire Insurance Company Hartford, and F. U. Price, the president of the will continue to represent the People's Company. The People's Insurance Company, agencies all over the country. Only a short time ago the nrm of satterice, however a marini, insurance brokers who failed recently, tried to control of the company by representing that teortrolled a large portion of the stock.

On January 1, 1891, the company had cash as of $332,404.99, including a peptial of $309,090.

a net surplus of $19,892 77. Its premium income during load was $131,547 74. The directors of the company are William Moir, Cornelius Stephens, James E. Hedges, Joseph B. Miller, Albert Mann, Prederick V. Price, Joseph H. Wood, John A. C. Gray, Scott Foster, Alburt T. Stephens, A. C. Milne, Henry Demarest and H. V. Brumann.

The reason assigned for the course of the directors is lack of business. The secretary of the company said that the company had been losing moneys right along, and there were no better prospects for the future. He added that no irregularity or scandal was attached to the closing up of the business.

OBITUARY.

BENSON JOHN LOSSING.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 3.-Benson John Lossing the well-known historian and one of the best known citizens of Dutchess County, died at his home, in Chestnut Ridge, to-day. He was comparatively on Tuesday, but was taken ill early this morning and died before a doctor could reach his bedside. The cause of death was valvular disease of the heart.

Mr. Lossing was born in Beekman, Dutchess County,

N. Y., on February 12, 1813. His father, a farmtr.

died when the son was young. After attending school for a time, Benson was apprenticed to a Poughkeepsle watchmaker, who took him into partnership after he had served nearly seven years. In 1835 he became one of the owners and editor of "The Poughkeepsie Telegraph." In 1836 he and his port-ner began the publication of "The Poughkeep-Casket," a literary journal. time Mr. Lossing placed himself under the instruction of a wood-engraver in New-York, and in 1838 he was engaged as editor and illustrator of "The Family Farlin, of this city, as a State Forest Commissioner, to Magazine." He performed this service for the last two of the eight volumes of "The Magazine," the earliest fully illustrated American magazine. In 1839 he established himself in New-York as a wood-en graver, a craft that had then but three practitioners beside himself in this city, and two years later he severed his connection with the Poughkeepsle publications. In 1848 he matured the plan of his principal work, the "Pictorial Field-Book of the Revolution," which was published in thirty Illustrated numbers (1850-'52). For twenty years Mr. Lossing was a contributor of illustrated papers to "Hurper's Magazine." For "The Art Journal" of London he prepared in 1860-'61 a series of articles descriptive of the scenery, history and legends of the Hudson volume entitled "The Hudson, from the Wilderness to the Sea" (1886). From the papers, letters and orderly books of General Philip Schuyler he prepared the "Life and Times of Philip Schuyler" (1880). Early in 1882 he began the compilation of a "Pictorial Field-Book of the Civil War in the United States," which was issued in three illustrated volumes (1866-'68-'69 Ats completion he prepared a "Pictorial Field-Book of the War of 1812" (1868). Since 1868 Mr. Lossing had resided on his Dutchess County farm, leading a quiet life, and pursuing his literary studies. He was a trustee of Vassar College from its foundation. In 1873 he received the degree of LL. D. from Michigan University. In 1872-75 he edited the "American Historical Record and Repository of Notes and Queries," published in Philadelphia.

Besides the works already mentioned, Mr. Lossing was the author of "Outline History of the Fine Arts" (1841), "Lives of the Presidents of the United States" (1847), "Seventeen Hundred and Seventy-six; or, the War for Independence" (1847), "Life of General Zachary Taylor" (1847), "Life of General Winfield Scott" (1847), "The New World" (1847), "Lives of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence" (1848), an illustrated "History of the United States for Schools" (1854), followed by other volumes of a graded series. "Biographies Associations" (1859), "Life of Washington" (1800), "Vassar College and its Founder" (1867), "Pictorial Description of Ohio" (1869), "Memorial of Licutement John Trout Greble" (printed privately, 1870), an illustrated "Memoir of Dr. Alexander Anderson" (the first American wood-engraver; published by the New-York Historical Society, 1870), a "History of England," for schools (1871), "Our Country" (1873), "The States Navy for Boys" (1880), "Cyclopaedia of United States History" (1881), "Blography of James A. Garfield" (1881), "History of New-York City" (1884).

field" (1881), "History of New-York City" (1884),
"Mary and Martha Washington" (1886), "Two Spies:
Nathan Hale and John Andre" (1886), and "The Empire State, a Compendious History of the Commonwealth of New-York" (1887).

Mr. Lossing annotated Francis Hopkinson's "Pretty Story," with a biography of the author of the allegory, which was published under the title of "The Oid Farm and the New Farm" (1857). With Edwin Williams he compiled the "Statesman's Manual" (1858) and the "National History of the United States" (1858). He also edited and annotated George W. P. Custis's
"Diarles of Washington" (1859) and the "Recollections and Private Memoirs of Washington" (1859), and the "Poems" of William Wilson, with an accompanying biography (1869). He prepared an edition of John Trumbull's "McFingal" (1871).
